Sunday Life Page 1 of 1

Belfast Telegraph | Sunday Life | Ireland's Saturday Night | Business Telegraph | Jobfinder | Homefinder

Sunday Life

- + News
- + Sport + Features

Belfast Telegraph

News

- + Business Telegraph
- + Features
- + Letters
- + Telegraph Columnists
- + Opinion
- + Northwest Edition
- + Northwest Weekly + Education
- + Interactive Letters
- ⊥ Personals
- Media Pack

Sport

- + Football + Rugby
- + Gaelic Games General
- Lifestyle
- + Arts
- + Film & TV + Food & Drink
- + Music
- + Health & Beauty
- + Motoring
- + Travel
- + Reader Holidays + Special Interest
- Twentyfourseven
- Homefinder
- Property News
- + Property Features Sunday Life
- Ireland's Saturday Night Top 100 Companies Home Delivery Online Archive
- Calendar 2006 Ads For Free Rugby World Cup At The Movies

Sunday Life Home > News

One hour photo

Last picture of Martin Kelly - 60 minutes later he vanished

15 January 2006

This is the happy image of young Ulsterman Martin Kelly taken just one hour before his mysterious disappearance

The camera phone snap- captured during a New Year's Day visit to a Belfast bar - has taken on added poignancy for his family and friends.

For the 21-year-old apprentice plumber left Pat's Bar in the docks' area shortly after this picture was taken - and has not been seen since.

Two weeks have elapsed, leaving his family increasingly anxious about his well-being.

But, speaking to Sunday Life, brother-in-law, Paul Kelly said that the family remains hopeful that Martin will be found, safe and well.

Said Paul: "We are all living on hope. We are living on the hope that Martin is out there somewhere. We don't know where he is. But we have no other indication to suggest that he is NOT out there - somewhere."

Paul described Martin as "a very free spirited young person", who "can take care of

And he revealed that dark -haired Martin had spent one year in Africa - winning a charity award for his voluntary work in Namibia

The Belfast man added that big-hearted Martin also wanted to help tsunami victims in Sri Lanka and planned to travel around Australia in late 2006.

"This has been such a shock and has had such a devastating impact upon the family. It is really, really out of character for him, as he is so close to them

"He is as much of a friend, as a son, to his mother, Karen. They have a very close relationship. She just called him 'our Martin'. There were no possible issues that he would have hid from her.

"Martin is very popular and is always in good form. He was finishing his plumbing apprenticeship in June and he was planning his trips.

"He has absolutely everything to live for. We will not give up and we will not be stopping, until we get him home." $\,$

Paul thanked Sunday Life for including Martin in our Bring Them Home campaign, to help trace missing people in Northern Ireland.

"We are very thankful to Sunday Life for helping in our appeal to get Martin back. We are delighted that you have put the posters up for us", said Paul.

Back | Return to top | Printable Story

SiteSearch

Go

Terms & conditions | Privacy policy | Advertise online | Advertise in print | Contact us |

© 2005 Independent News and Media (NI)