Psychic's Journey In Search For Martin

By David Young

Tuesday 14th March 2006

continued...

Martin's mother Karen said the psychic's description of her son's personality was wholly accurate and said she believed her spiritual powers could help find him.

"Well, I always think you'd just don't die, you have too much energy, I do believe that there is an after-life, and in angels," she said. "I believe I have my own guardian angel, my mummy died when I was 14 and I would still talk to my mummy to this day. So I believe you don't just die, there's always a presence and there's always a place that's better than this."

Mrs Kelly also urged police divers to research the areas Mrs Lazarus identified. "We know our life is going to be very different, but at the moment we have no life. I have a new wee grandbaby coming along. I want to be able to look forward to my wee grandchild, but at the minute my only thoughts are just bringing Martin home. "I know Martin would never leave me and I know through one way or the other he will come back."

Police boats were on the water again over the weekend continuing the search for Mr Kelly. Officers will this morning release digitally enhanced CCTV images which show a man, believed to be Mr Kelly, walking in the dock area on the night he went missing.
